

Fydary - One Pager

The team at Fydary has found the solution in order to create a truly democratized global economic solution to allow people of all backgrounds to collectively come together and take control of the world's resources. Through smart contracts that allow tokenization and representation of actual legal ownership, dividend distribution and governance features, people are now able to gain access to those resources that have never been available otherwise.

Fydary is solving problems that are broadly present in the financial sector today, such as high barrier of entry, illiquidity, inability to manage many small investors and limited innovation.

Diversification and availability of investment are important for the profitability and security of the investor. Options to diversify investments in several funds, to fully or partially sell or buy positions, and to manage investment, can now be implemented in an easy and simple manner.

Fydary relies on the deployment of fiduciaries and smart contracts, which are applications that run on a blockchain network. Users will be able to participate in any listed project they want, by issuing tokens and partially investing them into a tokenized asset fund (e.g. real estate, hedge funds, automated farms and green energy). As a result, users have the fractional ownership of certain asset funds they invest in. Gamification and education play a key role for our platform, in order to modernize finance and increase investor's knowledge and to improve on their investment strategy.

Through the platform, users can freely trade their fractional ownership of asset funds represented with tokens and manage all ownership rights arising from their assets as well as govern commercial investment and ownership relations.

This is the best time to be alive and the internet is the ultimate equalizer that we have ever had. Location, educational background and even finance through blockchain are no longer excuses for having negative circumstances. Everyone has an equal opportunity to participate through globalization, and one of the biggest missing factors is being able to control high value assets. Collectively, as global citizens, we can now do this through the Fydary platform solution.
